

Service/Engineering/Installation Technician required for a challenging role within a small and dynamic company

CIRCA £20-25k pa

Edinburgh based Reactec Ltd works on noise and vibration related issues through products, consultancy and design services across a range of industry sectors.

With the imminent launch of an exciting new product for the power tools in the construction and manufacturing industry, a service/engineering/installation technician is required to assist clients with system set up and on-site support.

This job offer presents an exciting opportunity to work with a new technology, and to develop and enhance your career in an independent and highly motivated working environment.

Responsibilities

- Responsible for on site system installation
- Responsible for on site training of operatives – toolbox talks
- Required to work closely with sales team to co-ordinate on-site activities
- Liaising with clients' operational staff
- Site preparation, diagnostics, ongoing support, and hardware/equipment repair
- Working with client Health, Safety and Environment departments
- Provision of continued support to existing clients
- Required to assist with any production and delivery issues as required

Core skills

- Ability to work mostly under own initiative
- Self motivated professional with the vision and drive to succeed
- Excellent time management and organisational skills
- Outstanding communication skills, verbal and written
- PC literate
- A full driving license and a willingness to travel are essential for this role

For further information please contact:

Tim Kent
Reactec Ltd
5 Leamington Terrace
Edinburgh
EH10 4JW
T: 0131 221 0920
E: tim@reactec.com
Successful applicants will be contacted